

RIVERDAYS: 46th Annual Labor Day Arts and Craft show

Posted by Mary Mattingly on September 1st, 2014

SEEING THE SIGHTS: Thousands of people browsed the 46th Annual Labor Day Arts and Craft show, which featured more than 100 artists and craftpersons. Attendees could shop, listen to music provided by the David Yonker Band in Hemlock Park and stroll along the Riverwalk. Artworks also held a drawing that day for a Galloup guitar, which was donated by Bryan Galloup. Scott Peterson ended up taking home the electric guitar and case. (Pioneer photo/Mary Mattingly)

LOOK-
ING THROUGH JEWELRY: Louise Van Velson, of Grand Rapids, examines stone pendants at a booth. She comes to the arts and crafts show every year. (Pioneer photo/Mary Mattingly)

TASTE
